

How to Use Two Stars and a Wish

Peer reviews can be very helpful to writers. Peer reviewers see the writing as other readers see it. This gives reviewers a chance to help the writer find the best way to communicate his or her ideas. As a peer reviewer, your job is to help make the CONTENT better. Follow these guidelines to make your review as helpful as possible.

THINK ABOUT

- What is the purpose of the response?

THINK
ABOUT

- Who is the intended audience?

THINK
ABOUT

- Does the response fit the assignment/prompt?

- What works best in this response?

- What did the writer do really well?

- Is there any part of the response that you do not understand or that is missing?

- Is there anything that could make this response better?
